New York, July 3.

The Herald's Agents (the Herald) sees some light is thrown upon the secret history of the initial proceedings of the Southern Confederacy by the late, Wilson's recent capture, in Georgia of documents, archives and records of proceedings of the rebel Provisional Government at Montgomery. They show the revels told to him, when they met fairly at work, in organizing their Pro-visionary movement, which they during full operation in less than five weeks from the assembling of their National Congress or Convention.

In the work of framing their Constitution the documents show that they had considerable backing and discussion.

There was a strong feeling in favor of naming their Southern establishment the Republic of Washington, which was only defeated by a majority of only eight in favor of the title Confederate States of America. There were long debates over the proposition to insert in the preamble of the Constitution the words "in Christianity." The former is understood to have been voted down out of respect to Andrew Johnson, and the latter in deference to the wishes of the people of Louisiana and Texas. Many other curious provisions of the Constitution are made by these documents.

WASHINGTON, July 2.

The Treasury Department, yesterday, paid in gold the interest on its bonds, amounting to $350,000.

Another protest against the appointment of Judge Parsons as Provisional Governor of Alabama has been sent to the President and the members of his Cabinet, including, it is said, the President himself, in the hope that the President, on a perusal of their protest, will be induced to rescind the appointment and appoint in his stead some one more acceptable to the public.

About fifty applications per day for appointments as clerks and messengers are received in the Treasury Department from citizens who have been disabled during the war. The Department desires the anouncement made that no application, from whatever source, can, at present, be accepted, except on the basis of a disability from military service, owing to the fact that no vacancies exist.
